

Coronavirus: COVID-19
Current Update – December 16, 2022

Public Health Ontario’s Weekly COVID-19 Summary

Public Health Ontario (PHO) warns us to interpret these trends with caution because they are not entirely accurate. COVID-19 cases, contacts, and outbreaks are only being managed in high-risk populations and settings. There is also a delay in reporting, especially with severe outcomes and deaths. Reported case counts are a severe underestimate of the actual extent of COVID-19 infections in Ontario.

Last week, indicators for COVID-19 were higher overall compared to the previous week. The number of reported COVID-19 cases in Ontario was 5,290 compared to 4,908 the week before. Last week, there were 270 reported COVID-19-related hospitalizations and 40 reported COVID-19-related deaths, which are both lower than the week before.

The total number of confirmed, ongoing COVID-19 outbreaks in high-risk settings is 134, which is higher than 105 outbreaks the week before. The number of outbreaks increased in Long-Term Care homes (by 11), retirement homes (by ten), hospitals (by four), and congregate living (by four).
